In fact, after drug dealing, human trafficking is tied with the illegal arms trade as the second largest criminal industry in the world, and it is the fastest growing. Created in the image and likeness of God, persons trafficked are treated like slaves; their dignity is violated. Trafficking in human beings is a serious global problem that needs a global solution; it needs YOU, to help stop human trafficking.

What is a chaplet?

What is the difference between a chaplet and a rosary? Can I just say the prayers silently to myself, or do I need to say them aloud?

Joe

Dear Joe,

Rosary is a common name for all forms of Catholic prayer beads. The original rosary had fifteen decades (groups of ten beads). Monks prayed these rosaries by reciting all 150 psalms, one for each bead.

Most rosaries today have five decades. Each time we pray a rosary, we focus on one group of the mysteries of Christ. The fifteen traditional mysteries of Christ are the five joyful mysteries, the five sorrowful mysteries, and the five glorious mysteries. In 2002, Pope John Paul II added another group, the five luminous mysteries. When we pray a rosary, we pray one decade of beads for each mystery of a group; for one rosary we might pray the five sorrowful mysteries, the next time the five joyful mysteries, and so on.

The word chaplet can be used in several ways. A chaplet can refer to a single decade of the rosary, which is prayed when time does not allow for more. A chaplet can also refer to a circular strings of beads used for keeping count of prayers in a devotion or to the devotion itself. These chaplets are designed for individual devotions, and the number of beads varies by devotion. Examples are the chaplet of the seven sorrows of Mary, the chaplet of the five wounds, and the chaplet of the precious blood.

Individuals may pray rosaries and chaplets in silence, but groups should pray them aloud in unison, worshiping as a community.

EIGHTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

Is 49:14-15 / 1 Cor 4:1-5 / Mt 6:24-34

You've probably heard the phrase "elephants never forget." A Google search reveals it to be backed by science: Research shows that elephants have incredible memories for human faces, fellow elephants, food locations, and burial sites. We human beings have to rely on nutritional supplements in hopes of training our memories to resemble that of an elephant's.

Fortunately, God has a memory that bests that of even the most remarkable elephant. In our first reading today, Isaiah uses the image of a mother tenderly nursing her infant, forming a seemingly unbreakable bond, to describe our relationship with God. Yet, Isaiah claims, even if a human mother forgets or abandons her child, God never forgets us.

The next line of the reading is one of my favorites: "Upon the palms of my hands I have written your name." God has inscribed us into God's very self. Forgetting us isn't in the realm of possibility. We are treasured, provided for, watched over, and loved beyond our dreams.

Despite the supplements we might take, our memories are neither as sharp as an elephant's nor as far-reaching as God's. Jesus reminds us in the Gospel that the worries of our daily lives distract us from remembering God's ongoing goodness to us. Worrying not only doesn't add a moment to our lifespan, but it also can cause us to forget the place we hold in God's heart—a place so intimate that our every need and desire is known.

We spend an immense amount of energy worrying. Jesus challenges us to shift that energy into sharpening our memory of where we belong—carved in God's hand. When we remember that, trusting God with our many needs becomes a little easier—and maybe even something we can work to never forget.
