FOURTEENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME (A)

Zec 9:9–10 / Rom 8:9, 11–13 / Mt 11:25–30

One day when my children were young, we went on a walk around the neighborhood. We encountered two girls who were about five and six years old. The elder child had her arm around the younger and was saying convincingly, “I’ll tell you how it goes. I’ll tell you what to do, and you do it.” The five-year-old, all eyes, nodded at the wisdom of these words. I smiled as I thought, “It would be nice if the world were so simple.”

Our readings today present the deceptively simple solution to demands and temptations. It’s as though God is saying, “I will tell you how it goes.”

In the face of war and devastation, Zechariah shows us the God of peace, who rides a donkey but whose justice lasts forever.

In the face of hunger, anger, and oppression, the psalmist prays to God, who is slow to anger and abounds in mercy, who raises up the fallen and satisfies the desire of every living thing, and whose reign lasts forever.

In the face of death of body and spirit, Paul talks about the life that can be ours if we but open ourselves to the Spirit of God.

And Jesus—seeing that we are burdened by temptations, the expectations of others, and the laws that oppress rather than help us live—invites us to become like children, to take off the heavy yoke that binds and put on the yoke of Christ, a yoke that gives life.

Is he telling us what to do? Yes.

All that’s left is for us to do it.

FIFTEENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME (A)

Is 55:10–11 / Rom 8:18–23 / Mt 13:1–23 or 13:1–9

Like many families, we planted a garden in the backyard as much to enjoy the flowers as to teach our daughters where food comes from. Cucumber seeds, tomatoes, green beans, and carrots went into the soil. We watched for weeds and bugs. There wasn’t a lot we could do with squirrels. And we plucked the few pieces of produce our clay-like soil allowed to grow.

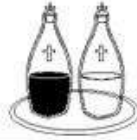

In the process, I discovered two things: 1) I don’t have the patience or passion for gardening that some of my friends do, and 2) I have the utmost respect for those who tend the fields and flocks that supply our food. Every seed they plant expresses their hope in harvest. The farmer rejoices in what happens when seed, earth, and water come together.

So it is with God, who plants us on this earth and fills us with his Word. We are God’s expression of hope for the world. We are the ones through whom God can show forth his love to all. But the parable makes it clear that whatever ground is in our hearts and souls strongly affects the outcome. If we are open, ready, and waiting, we will show forth the rich harvest of God’s grace and righteousness. If our hearts are rocky or thorny, the yield will be like the handful of beans in my backyard—or it may be nothing, and the world will not know God through us.

But we are fortunate. God is a far more patient gardener than I was. He will continue to work the soil of our hearts and minds so that when we are planted, we may give a hundred times over the love that God has shown in planting us.
