THE MOST HOLY TRINITY (A)

Ex 34:4b-6, 8-9 / 2 Cor 13:11-13 / Jn 3:16-18

When I was a child, the mystery of a God who is three-in-one was explained by that commonly used (if somewhat inaccurate) symbol, a three-leaf clover. Since then, many people have attempted to put the reality of Trinity into words that try to explain: Lover, Beloved, Love Outpoured or Source, Wellspring, and Fountain, as well as the more common expression of Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.

Still another approach is to stand in front of a mirror and see yourself as someone's child, someone's parent, and someone's spouse all at the same time—and yet see one person standing there.

These examples begin to tell us something of the Trinitarian mystery, but they cannot contain the whole of it. God simply is, and the closest we can come to God's essence is to talk about God's relationship in and of God's self.

But words have their limits. Is there something in our own experience where God reveals a little of this mystery? Why is it that we reach out for others, yearn for love, or seek God in prayer?

Genesis tells us we're created in God's image. If God is relational; then we must be as well. We are created to be in relationship, to know ourselves as connected. The New Testament is filled with that language: Jesus is our brother; we are adopted children of God. We are to love one another as God loves us. We are to become one in God.

In the experience of love and connectedness and in the experience of being part of God's family, we will come to know the mystery of God a little more clearly.
