Thirty-Third Sunday in Ordinary Time: November 18th

The readings today speak of the end of the world and the coming of the kingdom. The bishops' pastoral on stewardship says clearly that "that 'life to come' is in continuity with this present life through the human goods, the worthy human purposes, which people foster now." May our good stewardship help us to be numbered among the chosen on the last day!

THIRTY-THIRD SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME (B)

Dn 12:1-3 / Heb 10:11-14, 18 / Mk 13:24-32

I've never been creative, but I do enjoy baking. It allows me to create something while following a strict set of instructions, which appeals to my love of organization. Most recipes I use come with a picture of the completed dessert in all its delicious glory. However, even if I adhere religiously to the recipe, my baked creations rarely look like the pictures. Maybe I didn't whisk the eggs briskly enough or twist the frosting tube just so.

It's frustrating not to know exactly how my dessert will look. However, as long as I put the right ingredients in, it usually tastes great. Dessert is dessert—sugar always triumphs in the end!

The readings we're given at the end of the liturgical year are focused on another kind of end—the end of the world. The varying descriptions of this "end time" usually include cosmic battles between good and evil that can leave us feeling confused, uncertain, and even frightened. As with baking, we can't know exactly how the events of this end time will play out.

But what we hear consistently from Jesus is that no matter how the events occur, good will triumph over evil. The world is ultimately in God's hands, and God (and good) will emerge victorious.

Our challenge, then, is to trust God and be prepared to follow the recipe, so to speak. The key ingredients: recognition of our mortality and a desire to fervently follow the Lord. Our lives are brief, and we can't delay discipleship. We need to be centered in God now.

By sticking to the recipe today, we can remain confident that God will welcome us into his kingdom in the end.
